

MANIFESTING SUCCESS IS A CO-CREATION!

By Lisa Danza

The topic of manifesting success as a spiritual being is an interesting topic. On my personal journey of exploration the universe provided an abundance of opportunities to learn and integrate many facets of this subject but ultimately it came down to some very simple truths about love in action.

If we want to manifest success and spiritual beings then we must practice being spirit (love) in action, in alignment with divine plan and purpose. As spiritual beings, it's no longer about us as individual personalities with personal desires, wants and goals and action plans to be achieved– it's about a Divine Co-creation!

How do we manifest success as a divine co-creation in a real and grounded way?

Make Love a priority

No act of love or kindness is ever wasted, if you feel a lack of love within yourself or in your environment do your best to restore the harmony within yourself, accept how things are without judgment and be grateful for the opportunity to co-create more love with the universe and heal with kindness, tolerance, humility and acceptance.

The universe then gets the message that you are choosing to help restore the harmony on the planet and develop a co-operative working relationship with the energies in service to all that is and it becomes a conscious co-creation.

Make decisions from a state of clarity, love and wisdom.

Always question your motives and intentions for your goals ask yourself is this about love or fear? Avoid the temptation to make decisions and choices when feeling competitive, resentful, angry or emotionally charged, do your best to lovingly resolve the conflict first and then make decisions from clarity and inner harmony and the greater good of all. It's not about you as the personality but being part of something much greater- a co-creation.

Align with your own Divine Spark within, Divine Source the highest good of the Planet.

Choose to be aligned with divine source, with planetary plan and purpose, and with your divine essence, mission and puzzle piece in this lifetime. Affirm that you are connected with the planet and serve the greater good of all concerned. Feel your connection with Earth and align your heart with that of the planet.

Feel and maintain your connection with your Inner Divinity and with Universal Divinity. Constantly affirm it. This is a great way to allow the universe to 'suck you into place' and align all your goals and aspirations accordingly. Your goals then become source supported as a co-creation.

Have no attachments to outcomes.

Be flexible, adaptable and allowing; the moment you energetically attach to something the energy working with it no longer flows and the manifestation cannot adequately breathe and evolve. Simply choose, take the necessary action and then allow it to be.

Stay receptive; when working with the universe and the planet, it is about what is needed in the moment and staying attuned with the energies working with you. Inspiration, ideas and signposts can present in any form and at any time, you will recognise the signposts if you are receptive and 'listening'. If you are stubbornly attached to a single idea of how something should be, you will find it hard to recognise a signpost when it comes.

Success rarely presents in a way that we expect, it may even show up in embryonic form and if we disregard it, we can miss a one and only opportunity. Let go and allow the universe to help you and work with you as - a co-creation.

Be authentic, manifest success through your own uniqueness and worthy self expression.

Let go of attachments to who you are and what you are about and just be willing to BE who you truly are and embrace with love your own path and individual sovereignty.

Let go of any glamorous or not so glamorous ideas of who you are, your identities, myths and personal stories, roles you play, your personal history and beliefs about yourself. Let go of expectations of self, of what you think you should or ought to be. Stop comparing yourself with others.

Comparing yourself too takes away the opportunity for discovery, exploration of your own uniqueness.

Allow others to serve as role models, inspiration and examples of what is possible. You have your own unique expression, your own example your own success to actualize, this is really embracing your piece of the puzzle and actualizing the Divinity within you in a real and true way. When you are really being true to this, your heart can sing as it works with the universe to serve a greater purpose from a place of healthy self esteem from which to manifest success as co-creation.

Let go of the Past and embrace Wisdom

Let go of the past; stop worrying and agonizing over old losses and regrets of the past, embrace the moment and every opportunity to demonstrate that you have truly learned from those past experiences. Choose to behave in a way that allows the past to serve as your greatest teacher. When you use the past in this way, it becomes wisdom in action and an actualisation of success from a spiritual as well as human perspective and helps you and others to move forward from every challenge and take responsibility for your success instead of blaming the universe for what appears to be misfortune. This is manifesting success as a-co-creation.

Act from truth and integrity

Act from truth and integrity yet don't use your truth to wound, harm or judge self or others. Practice inclusivity tolerance and understanding. We are all works in progress in each and every moment at different stages of our journey. Maintain your personal integrity and ethics with healthy spiritual, psychological and physical boundaries . Living in your truth is not about and telling people what they should be doing, it is more about demonstrating being a living example of the ideal and constantly being in of and for love. Manifesting success on the ground will involve others in some way and it is important to maintain harmony whilst we stretch, learn and grow together in co-creation.

Take necessary action and do what needs to be done

Put yourself in the path of the universe, the greatest risk is to give in to fear, doubt and disbelief. Human success as a spiritual being is having the courage, commitment and willingness to do what needs to be done long after the initial enthusiasm has waned. When times get tough, it will require this prior commitment to engage a self determination that will shape the outcome for success.

Make yourself available for spirit to express through you

Be available and prepared for the opportunities which may present. When you work with the universe and planetary plan and purpose, you become a player, a member of the team and you are relied upon to get the job done as a unique individual expression of Divinity. Aligning with your own Divine spark in the outplay of creation is being a team player for the universe. It is up to you to follow leads given, take necessary action and do what needs to be done. God will deliver success on your doorstep like a home delivered pizza, there are no free lunches in life! It is a co-creation.

When we follow these steps, we become examples of love in action, examples of spiritual beings manifesting success in a real and grounded way as human beings, serving the good of the planet and all concerned. We become team players and work in of and for love in service to All That Is.

Success becomes a co-creation

© Copyright Lisa Danza AIEBS Australian Institute of Ethical Business Studies. All rights reserved.

Lisa Danza is the head and heart of the Insight Foundation's Business faculty ; AIEBS Australian Institute of Ethical Business Studies. She works with individuals, groups and organisations who really want to make a difference in the world to align their service mission, purpose and careers with planetary plan and purpose; thus bringing wholeness and heart back to business and unity and harmony back to our beloved planet.

Visit the website: ethicalbusiness.net.au

Meditation classes, online business training programs, personal growth and development for the workplace, personal mentoring, consulting.